Q. I saw where this is a brownfields site, but did not see any information describing any environmental services with the brownfield. Do you currently have an environmental firm performing these services or will they need to be performed by the developer? We work with a few mill redevelopers and these types of projects are one of our specialties.

A. We do not have anything current with an environmental services provider, therefore the developer would need to secure appropriate services. There has been additional documentation added to our website:
